THE GEORGIA MINSTRELS
Probably many Edmondsons have been looking forward to the coming of the Georgia Minstrels because it is the first time that the famous minstrel show will be seen in the city. The show is a combination of the best of the minstrel, vaudeville and musical comedy. It is a show that is sure to please everyone who sees it.

If Methodists are rigidly adhered to, Alberta Methodists will ignore social service and other churches. The recommendation of the social service leaders at the Saturday session of the Alberta Methodist conference was to ignore all other churches and to concentrate on the return to prohibition. The recommendation was made by Rev. Dr. D. B. Chown, general superintendent of the conference, who said that the only way to save the province from the ravages of alcoholism was to return to prohibition. He said that the social service leaders were not to be trusted and that they were only working for the return to the bar. He said that the social service leaders were not to be trusted and that they were only working for the return to the bar. He said that the social service leaders were not to be trusted and that they were only working for the return to the bar.

Rev. G. D. Armstrong, secretary of the conference, said that the recommendation was a mistake and that it was not the duty of the conference to ignore other churches. He said that the conference should be concerned with the welfare of the province and that it should not be concerned with the return to prohibition. BOTH GOT A CHANGE.

A month ago Ontario farmers were complaining that it rained so persistently they could not put in their crops, while Western farmers found the ground so dry in a good many districts that they wondered whether it was worth while sowing the seed. Now forest fires are sweeping Northern Ontario, while the rivers in Southern Alberta are on the rampage and the whole prairie country is green with fresh grass and rapidly growing fields of grain. In the matter of weather Kipling is right: "East is East and West is West." The only point of similarity is the suddenness with which the conditions in either section were reversed.

HOW IT WORKS.

The German mark has achieved the seemingly impossible, by falling to still lower value. The result that has followed is that the country has increased from fifty to one hundred per cent over the already inflated cost prevailing a month ago. The moral should not be lost upon those who think that our own Government should follow the example of Berlin and begin the issue of fiat money. If the Government should do so, they would have to pay the "fictional" dollars they would have to pay for a garden rake or a pair of boots.

ANOTHER PROTEST DUE.

Those people in the United States who want to prevent Lord Carnarvon digging into the tomb of King Tutankhamen have another opportunity to show their fidelity to the rights of the dead. An enterprising Chicago archaeologist has been excavating in a cemetery at Onover, in the hope of unearthing the bones of Princess Psochotis. The British authorities, it seems, give him permission to do in England what Carnarvon did in Egypt. Perhaps the fellow countrymen and women of the Chicago amateur will protest against the body-snatching from an English burying ground as vigorously as they did against the disturbance of Pharaoh's last resting place.

A COSTLY PREFERENCE.

As many people have migrated from Great Britain to the United States this year as the law of the latter country allows. The immigration officials have accordingly put up the bars, and are refusing admittance even to newly-made English brides of American husbands. Meantime the exodus of Canadians to California and other favored sections of the republic has been on without interference from Washington. Apparently our neighbors have a preference for the Canadian immigrant, since they do not object to numbers. Or perhaps Congress felt that the Republic loses so many citizens to the Dominion that it was better to leave the gap open in hope that the reverse movement would balance the score. This sort of preferential treatment of course is very flattering to Canadians, but we are paying too much for the compliment. It could be wished that the law-makers of the Union would take a somewhat less generous view of the desirability of Canadian immigrants, and set a limit to the number to be admitted to their country. Canadians who are good enough to be admitted to the United States are people whom the Dominion can ill afford to lose.

THAT DRUMHELLER AFFAIR.

Trider has been found not guilty of murdering Constable Paris at Drumheller. On agreement to pay the fine imposed for an infraction of the liquor law he was released from custody, and is now free. Unless the press dispatches have failed to represent the affair correctly, that is a peculiar outcome, and one not likely to make for observance of law. The story told to the public in the dispatches was that this man refused to stop his car when ordered to do so by two police officers, that because he did not obey the car ran into a fence, accidentally or by will of the driver; and one of the officers was killed. It would be supposed that at least this much was done to a party who acted in that manner on the charge of resisting arrest or refusing to obey an officer of the law. If the tradition is established that bootleggers and motor drivers do not have to obey the police, and are not responsible for what happens in consequence, it is useless to hope for law enforcement or for safety on public streets and roads. That Trider intended to kill anybody is not likely, more probably he only wanted to get away. But a man who is ordered by a police man to stop has no business to try to get away, and if he does so he should be prosecuted and punished to the limit.

ONLY THE FIRST BID.

Mayor Maguire, of Toronto, thinks the National railway, because it is "the people's own road," should grant a six dollar rate on Alberta coal to Ontario in order to help solve the fuel problem of Central Canada—apparently regardless of whether or not that rate would pay the actual cost of running the coal trains. Mr. Church, M.P., for the same city, makes the same suggestion. That argument was bound to be advanced sooner or later, in respect to the distribution of coal or some other commodity. The fact that the public own the National system lends itself to a plea that the road should be made to accommodate the public even when that has to be done at a loss. It is fortunate that the suggestion has come from Ontario, not from Alberta. Much as it would be to the advantage of the people of this province to supply Ontario's fuel requirements, there has been no suggestion from this quarter that the Government railway, because it is a Government railway, should be asked to haul the coal at an actual loss on operation. Any such loss would of course go to swell the deficit which figures every year at the bottom of the financial report of the system, which deficit has to be paid by the taxpayers. If the taxpayers of the Dominion would rather pay a few millions more per year as taxes in order that Alberta coal may be landed in Ontario at less than the cost of hauling there is no particular objection coming from this province. As most of the taxpayers live in Eastern Canada, it is upon that section of the country that the added levy would mainly fall. But Alberta has asked that the coal be carried to the much-desired Ontario market at the cost of an enlarged deficit on the Government railway and of an added burden upon the taxpayers. The Alberta coal producer cannot be charged with trying to push his business at the expense of the public in that matter; though he, and Albertans generally, might offer little objection if it were considered better national policy to make the country self-dependent in the matter of fuel—even at the price of heavier losses on the National railway—than to continue to export millions of dollars every year of coal brought from the United States or from Wales.

But before this suggestion gets any farther it is in order to note that if the National railway were required to haul Alberta coal at an actual loss there would immediately arise a demand that it also haul the products of eastern factories at a loss, and that it take out the Western grain crop at money-losing rates. There cannot in the matter of freight rates be a preference shown to one commodity against all others, and in the long run what was done for the coal producer or the coal consumer would have to be done for the producers or consumers of other things. That might or might not be good for the country, but there is no room for doubt as to what it would mean for the National railway, and hence for the taxpayers. If we prefer to pay part of our transportation charges as taxes all well and good, but it may as well be remembered that the rule will have to be applied all around, in all parts of the country, and on all kinds of commodities. If the National railway is to be loaded for the benefit of this, and that the other sectional interest, everybody is entitled to a share of the plunder. If it is to be made to stand on its own "feet," we will just have to forget that it is "the people's railway," and allow it to collect rates—even on coal—high enough to meet the actual cost of delivering the goods.

It will be time enough to talk about making the National railway the national "goat" when it is shown that it cannot haul Alberta coal to Ontario without actually losing money at a rate which would allow that coal to be sold there in competition with fuel from other sources. Nine dollars per ton is only Sir Henry Thornton's first bid. It is to be supposed that he made his calculation on the safe side, and allowed a diplomatic margin which can be struck off as negotiations proceed and pressure is applied. He has not said that the figure he set is the irreducible minimum, below which rates cannot be cut without making a coal train a bill of expense to the system. On the contrary, he has twice enquired what the Alberta producers and the Ontario distributors intend to do in the way of cutting charges. That at least suggests that Sir Henry has an other offer coming if and when the other parties concerned either follow the lead he has already given, or show him that they cannot do it. When he names the lowest rate consistent with his responsibility to make coal trains earn their running cost, will he be time to consider whether the country should disregard the financial integrity of the Government's railway enterprise and run it at a loss as a means of promoting other business, or of contributing to the national self-dependence and the general welfare. And if it comes to that, the choice would be more properly made by Parliament than by the directors of the railway. The officials in charge of that vast undertaking are employed to run it as a self-sustaining enterprise. They cannot fairly be asked to depart from that policy to solve the national fuel problem or accommodate any other side issue. If there has to be a departure, Parliament, which represents the owners of the railway, should take the responsibility of ordering it.

Methodist Conference Pays Tribute to Dr. T.C. Buchanan; Memorial to Overseas Dead

Retiring Superintendent of Home Mission Work Honored by Unrailing of Portrait and Eloquent Tributes—Dr. Chown Speaks of Those Who Gave Their Lives Overseas

It was a very thoughtful but happy surprise to the members of the Methodist conference which gathered yesterday night at the Methodist College, to find that the retiring superintendent of home mission work, Dr. T.C. Buchanan, who has had much to do with the home mission work in this province and throughout the Dominion, was the subject of a tribute to his work and of a memorial to those who have given their lives for the cause of the gospel overseas.

Dr. Buchanan, who has been superintendent of home mission work in this province since 1917, was the subject of a tribute to his work and of a memorial to those who have given their lives for the cause of the gospel overseas. SUFFERED SO FROM Heart and Nerves LIFE WAS A BURDEN

Mr. A. H. Lee, Beaumont, Ont. writes: "I am delighted to let you know what I have done by wearing the good Milburn's Heart and Nerve pills."

"A short time ago I suffered with heart and nerve trouble, and was as bad as I could be. I was unable to sleep at night. My heart was so bad I had spells when driving in the road and would find myself in the night and during my daily work in the farm. My nerves were so bad I would jump out of bed, and was completely unable to walk. I had before I could settle down, but after taking a few boxes of Milburn's Heart and Nerve pills I am a different man. I can honestly say I am a revived man. I now live in the best of health. In fact, the best I've been in for three years, and can now do any work with pleasure where before I was a burden to me."

EAMONN DE VALERA ADMITS HIS DEFEAT

DUBLIN, June 3. — A document attributed to Eamonn de Valera, to all ranks in the republican army, calling for the discontinuation of the armed struggle, has been taken by the Free State authorities from the Free State leader, Eamonn de Valera, a Republican leader, it was announced today.

The document, dated May 21, the document reads:

"Soldiers of Liberty! Legion of the Free State!"

"The republic can no longer be defended successfully by your arms. Further sacrifices on your part would prove to be in vain, and continuance of the struggle would be unwise in the national interest."

"The military victory must be allowed to rest for the moment with those who have destroyed the republic. Year efforts and sacrifices and your dear comrades in this forlorn hope will surely bear fruit. You have saved the national honor and have won the right to independence. Laying aside your arms now is an act of patriotism, as excellent as any act of patriotism."

pure as your value in taking them up."

NEW YORK, June 2. — Germano Cotonahon, arrested last night charged with possessing one hundred dollars of cash, was discharged today by magistrate Goodman on the ground that the court had no jurisdiction since the arrest was made after Governor Smith signed the repeal of the Mulligan-Gage state prohibition enforcement act.

POLICE INQUIRY IS RESUMED BY JUSTICE WALSH

Large Number of Witnesses Are Now Being Heard on Behalf of the Defence

The investigation into the charges of ill treatment against the city police by miners went in connection with the miners strike last January which was adjourned for two weeks was recommenced Saturday before Mr Justice Walsh in the supreme court and a number of witnesses for the defence have all been heard and up to date some two dozen or more witnesses for the defence have given evidence.

The hearing was adjourned Saturday afternoon until Monday morning and according to present indications it will take at least one Tuesday afternoon before all of the evidence for the defence is submitted.

The witnesses who gave evidence Saturday were all members of the police force, and there were no startling developments of any kind. The witnesses in their evidence merely corroborated the testimony which was submitted earlier in the hearing by members of the Mounted Police.

The witnesses for the most part had been actively engaged in keeping the streets from the miners since January 4 and the evidence given by them was largely a story of their activities and what they had seen of the actions of the mob. All of the witnesses told of having attempted to hold back the crowds of women and men and after some difficulty dispersed the crowd. A number of arrests. Some of the witnesses had seen the police strike women with clubs and if some strike women they contended that it had been as a result of being trampled underfoot by some of their own people.

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS—A Case Where Politeness Hurt.

HOW TIMES CHANGE

The change in outlook brought about by the time is instanced by the case of a blacksmith in a small town in the west. The blacksmith, who was formerly a more prosperous time at his trade, is now a blacksmith in a small town in the west. Mother and Her Baby Are Relieved of Eczema

Mrs. Peter A. Palmer, Salt Burn, New York, writes: "Dr. Chase's Ointment has completely relieved me of eczema and piles. I also used this Ointment for my baby, who broke out in eczema. A few applications were all that was necessary in her case. Dr. Chase's Ointment has been worth a hundred dollars to me—before using it I had spent a great deal more than I had in unsuccessful treatment from doctors. We have also used Dr. Chase's other medicines, the Nerve Food, which has restored my health after suffering from severe nerve trouble when a girl."
